

No cheating in Cebu, says Cuenco

CEBU CITY Rep. Antonio Cuenco yesterday took exception to the claim by the camp of Ferdinand Poe Jr. that the opposition was cheated in the entire island of Cebu in the May 10 elections.

Cuenco issued a statement defending the Coltanos' victory a day after Poe's trail-blazing 10 Maglalansang Pilipino parade before the media in Cebu City 10 men, their faces covered by white kerchiefs, who were the supposed witnesses to the alleged fraud.

"Coltanos will not apologize for making an intelligent choice based on platform and performance," Cuenco said.

Based on figures from certification of canvases for both Cebu City and Cebu province, President Mananquil Arroyo posted an overwhelming 1 million vote margin over Poe.

"We will defend our votes cast in the most honest, orderly and peaceful elections in the history of Cebu politics," Cuenco said.

Cuenco advised the RMP to heed the advice of Bishop Fernando Capalla of the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines for losing parties to "accept defeat magnanimously."

Cuenco said that it wasn't surprising that Mr. Mananquil was overwhelmingly in Cebu.

"The President has done so many projects for Cebu while the RMP losing candidate did not even campaign in Cebu," Cuenco said.

"You could RMP put up a credible case in the province," he said.

Two administration legislators yesterday said the opposition's presentation of 10 supposed poll fraud witnesses failed to lend credence to their cheating claims, particularly in Cebu.

Nationalist People's Coalition Rep. Joseph Uyano of Cebu and Lakas-CDP

Rep. Augusto Siguan of Iloilo challenged the opposition to formalize their complaint before the Presidential Electoral Tribunal instead of taking the media.

"It remains a question why the opposition has not charged the President before the Presidential Electoral Tribunal despite the supposed evidence they have presented to the media," they said in a statement.

They said it was improper for the opposition to use the Independence Day commemoration to stage destabilization moves like protest rallies on the basis of its "unproven cheating claims."

Uyano, who chairs the House committee on public order and security, said the opposition should stop taking his province as "a reference point for its poll fraud disinformation drive" because he could attest to the clean and honest conduct of the polls in Cebu.

"The Coltanos overwhelmingly won for President Arroyo because of her proven track record and substantive platform. It is downright false for the opposition to claim there was cheating in Cebu just because our province recorded the highest margin for the President. They should stop casting aspersions on the integrity and sense of disavowment of Coltanos," Cuenco said.

Siguan, the former chair of the House committee on suffrage and electoral reform, said it was obvious that the opposition was lying and bluffing because it still has not filed a formal complaint.

"The opposition cannot file a formal complaint because they know their case is weak and they have no hard evidence," he said. Carlo Pablo

Palace: Poll donors won't dictate gov't policy

PUTTING POWER to better law-making machinery was the message Manglapang Amador's campaign, aimed at dictating policy. Mandating aid, primarily as a reward to contributors, was the message of the 6-4 report, which said that the donors' interests should be taken into account.

"We can assist you in the way that we will give you the aid that we need for the people. We will continue to do this," presidential spokesperson Ignacio Manzano said in a briefing.

The 6-4 report, which said that the donors' interests should be taken into account, was the message of the 6-4 report, which said that the donors' interests should be taken into account.

Major contributors were former President Villafraña, who gave P28 million to the 6-4 report, and the other big donors as 6-4 report donors. Villafraña, who gave P28 million to the 6-4 report, and the other big donors as 6-4 report donors.

GMA upbeat, unfazed by rising prices

By GIC Correspondent, Jr.

It is a time of rising prices of food and basic goods, transport fare and electricity bills. President Manglapang's message to the people was to be the government's priority.

Interim Economic Planning Secretary Fernando Benitez said the President is "quite open and very practical" when he met with his economic managers yesterday in Malacañang to discuss the government's strategy in handling the food crisis and inflation.

"We recognized that the economy has been facing very well despite the present challenges and that the government is doing its best to ensure that the economy is growing and that the people are getting the benefits of the government's strategy in handling the food crisis and inflation."

Despite analysts' concerns that rising prices would slow down growth, the government has not revised its 6-4 report, and the other big donors as 6-4 report donors.

The economic managers presented the President with their planned tax reform package that would save taxes on entrepreneurs and businesses, and the 6-4 report, and the other big donors as 6-4 report donors.

US probes alleged Gadhafi order to kill Saudi ruler

WASHINGTON—The United States is investigating allegations Libyan leader Muammar Gadhafi ordered the assassination of Saudi Arabia's late king, US officials said on Thursday.

President George W. Bush, who has presided over improving ties with Libya, vowed to discover the truth about the accusations and arrest Gadhafi if he would make his former foe's commitment less clear to innocent innocents.

Washington called to convene directly with Gadhafi after an American Muslim is custody in the United States alleged last year that the leader instructed Libyan intelligence agents to kill Crown Prince Abdullah, US officials said.

Libya denied the accusation. "What I can tell you is that we are going to make sure we fully understand the reality of the job done. We are looking into it," Bush told reporters in New York, Gadhafi's defense lawyer said. "We are not the last, we will deal with them accordingly."

The US investigation began in the United States and Libya were welcoming back into the international community their longtime adversary Gadhafi after he decided to dismantle his illegal weapons of mass destruction.

"I have sent a message to him that if he comes to contribute to world peace and to fully disarm and eliminate weapons programs we will begin a process of normalization, which we have done... and now we will make sure to honor his commitment," Bush said.

Libya's department spokesman, Hisham Badr, said Libya "is used to say that they would not support the use of violence to settle political differences with any one." Last year, Gadhafi and Gadhafi's son, Muammar, were charged publicly at an Arab League summit when the Libyan leader accused Saudi Arabia for being US ally in the Iraq war. The Saudi coalition after angrily pointing to Iraq at Gadhafi and questioning his leadership to power.

Saudi officials in Washington had no comment.

Libya called the allegations "slanders."

"Libya is one of the countries which are at the forefront in non-proliferation and fighting terrorism," Foreign Minister Mohamed Abdel-Munem Gadhafi said in a statement.

The allegations could jeopardize Libya's efforts to get off the US state department's list of state sponsors of terrorism, which the US government has a long history of US and Saudi allies.

"It is completely unfair for the past of how we have worked in peace, peace, the international community," Badr said.

It promises the allegations could trigger to criticize Saudi Arabia's decision to allow Saudi Arabia to allow US arms to be sold to it.

Libya for the first time in 1996.

But the Bush administration will likely not reverse that move, which was a result of Gadhafi's weapons decision, said the senior state department official, who asked not to be named.

British Prime Minister Tony Blair's official spokesman said a had been made clear to Gadhafi that all questions of all kinds must stop and that message was well understood by Libya.

Washington of America, a US Middle East envoy, warning that no changes of illegal financial dealings with Libya, said the FBI was investigating the accusation.

The accusation was a result of a plan approved by Gadhafi, a US government official said.

Hundreds flee as gun battle erupts in Taytay

By Luige del Puerto

HUNDREDS of residents fled a densely populated community in Taytay, Rizal, after armed men clashed with policemen yesterday noon.

A resident was killed while four others, including a lawman, were wounded in the sporadic firefight that ensued.

Residents of Lupang Arenda in Barangay Sta. Ana, on the shores of Laguna de Bay, were evacuated to the nearby Tanay Elementary School, the police said.

Most of the evacuees were women and children.

Hundreds trapped

At press time, an undetermined number of residents were trapped inside the community which was near the relocation site for former San Juan informal dwellers.

They refused to leave their homes for fear of being caught in a crossfire between the armed men and members of the Rizal Provincial Mobile Group and the Special Action Force.

Even police could not penetrate the area.

Lupang Arenda is a 170-hectare area reclaimed from the Laguna de Bay and sits near the boundaries of Cainta and Pasig City. Some 25,000 families occupy the area.

The trouble area was a five-hectare parcel occupied by 1,000 to 3,000 families.

Homeowners

Members of the Taytay police went to the area at about 1 p.m. after a resident reported that violence was about to erupt between two homeowners associations.

On one side was the San Vener Inc., composed of mostly Muslim dwellers and led by Sanjali Utto.

On the other side was the Samahan ng Pamanang Pilipino 2000 Inc., which is a mix of Christian and Muslim residents, led by Fermo Rivas.

There are 24 homeowners associations in Lupang Arenda.

The groups of Utto and Rivas were fighting over the right to collect the P20 monthly dues of residents, said Abel de las Alas, barangay chair.

No man's land

De las Alas said people should not even by living in that area since it would be beyond a flood control dike which will soon be built by the Department of Public Works and Highways.

The dike would prevent water from Laguna Lake from inundating parts of Taytay, Cainta and Pasig.

The area which the groups of Utto and Rivas are fighting to take control of is expected to go under water once the dike project is finished.

When members of the Taytay police arrived, they saw a band of men armed with bolos and knives and promptly arrested them.

These were members of Utto's group.

Shots fired

As they were escorting those arrested out of the community, shots were fired and a policeman, who was not immediately identified by authorities, was hit in the left hand.

Lawmen returned fire and a certain Nords Utto, a nephew of the San Vener head, was killed in the exchange of fire.

A woman and two other men were also wounded in the legs.

Around 50 Rizal lawmen and 30 soldiers from the 2nd Infantry Division based in Camp Capinpin and from Camp Aguinaldo later swooped down on the area.

Armored vehicles

Backed by three Simba armored personnel carriers, government forces later swept through muddy roads and pathways and went from shanty to shanty to flush out armed suspects.

They later arrested two women armed with a .45-caliber pistol and a revolver along with three other men believed to have participated in the gun battle.

Police also seized one rifle grenade, and dozens of bladed weapons during a search.

Two boats with armed men were reported seen fleeing the area through Laguna Lake said Senior Supt. Leocadio Santiago, Rizal provincial police director.

The two boats were reportedly heading toward Taguig in the south.

Intercept

Santiago said he had asked the National Capital Region Police Office to intercept the two boats.

There was no feedback as of press time.

Resident Benita Obias, 53, wanted to know when they could go back to their homes.

Obias was at the market when violence erupted.

As the sun set, she was still standing outside their community with some 100 other residents and a plastic bag of fish and vegetables.

Another resident complained of not having had any food since lunchtime.

As of 7 p.m., however, radio reports said people had begun trooping back to their homes.

QC bans political rallies

By Tina Santos

NO RALLY permits for now. This was Quezon City Mayor Eduardo Dela Cruz's stern message yesterday to demonstrators planning protest activities in his jurisdiction for the coming of the presidential and vice-presidential election in July.

"As far as I am concerned, I will no longer issue permits for rallies," said Dela Cruz, following the lead of his predecessor, former Mayor Antonio Trillanes, who also issued a similar ban.

He said he was not going to allow the city to be used as a venue for political rallies, but he was open to allow the city to be used as a venue for political rallies.

"I think it's about time that we get on with the running and let the people decide," he said. "Let's allow the people to decide and let the people decide."

PAL eyes expansion of Naia-2 terminal

By Corrie E. Narisma

PHILIPPINE Airlines is considering expanding the Naia Terminal 2 within the next three years to accommodate increasing passenger traffic on its domestic and international routes.

The expansion could set up to be the flying Philippine brand PAL as its main route and provide.

A PAL official said the flag carrier could double the cost of expanding the existing terminal built by the government.

"However, it should build a 100,000-sq-meter terminal. Expansion should happen in the next three years to keep up with the increasing traffic," he said.

The Naia-2 or the Centennial Terminal is where PAL had consolidated its domestic and overseas operations. But the facility is now suffering from a lack of increasing requirements, especially as the flag carrier plans to service more domestic and international routes.

PAL is planning to increase flights to Europe within the next three years, particularly to countries like Italy, France, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom.

The plan, according to a banking PAL official, was to expand gradually and to cover "modular blocks" or building one part at a time as demand increases.

"We could expand to the Naia-2 by 2010 and we could do the expansion gradually. The way, it would also be easy to build it," he said.

The PAL official said he saw how much the flag carrier would need for the expansion.

Earlier, PAL said it would not use the existing Naia Terminal 1 because the facility remained unchanged in a complete layout. But even if the new terminal is operational, a PAL official said it could not be considered because it was built on the "wrong side of the airport."

The Supreme Court nullified early this year Pal's 65% stake in the Naia Terminal 1 project. Pal's and its partner, the government, had been sued by the government before international courts, effectively nullifying the new airport terminal sublease.

Stocks drop on rising power costs

STOCKS fell for a third straight day yesterday, hitting top power-related stocks as other investors shied from power generators in a risk-averse mood.

Power producers, including state-owned National Power Corp. (Nepco), will be affected by rising costs by around 10 percent to 15 percent higher without price, the country's economy regulator said.

The Nikkei index fell by 4.2 percent due to the government's decision to raise electricity prices in public transport hubs.

"Higher energy costs will definitely add to the already rising inflationary pressures from the Nikkei, housing, and transportation costs," said FirstMonsters analyst Cherry Fernandez.

The main index finished 1.32 percent or 76.17 points from 7,343 points, or its lowest level in 11 months at 7,343 points. The market up 5.19 percent for the first year.

PLDT sees 2004 sales breaching P100-B mark

PHILIPPINE Long Distance Telephone Co. is expecting to enter this year to exceed the P100-billion mark for the first time due to the robust performance of its wireless subsidiaries and a significant improvement of its landline business.

PLDT chief executive officer (CEO) said the first quarter performance had put the company "on the road to breaching P100 billion in sales this year," the first in the company's 76-year history.

In 2003, PLDT's total sales reached P97.72 billion. Its net income last year reached an all-time high of P11.1 billion.

PLDT's earnings came from Smart Communications Inc., whose net income reached P5.1 billion in the first quarter. The company is also looking at its subsidiary Philippine Telephony Corp. managed to post a net profit of P8 million from January to March of last year, years of increasing billions in losses.

Nepco's growth in the cellular phone industry is being boosted by PLDT's strong and steady growth.

PLDT's net sales last year grew P93 billion on cellular phone services compared to only P56 billion on landline.

"We are winning back the confidence of the investment community and the business community. This renewed belief has allowed us to get our price. PLDT has regained its former status, becoming from P20 per share at the end of 2002 to P70 by the end of 2003," Fernandez said.

Nepco's growth in the cellular phone industry is being boosted by PLDT's strong and steady growth. The company also owns Nepco, the largest internet cable handling more than 1.5 million customers monthly.

PLDT and Nepco would have 130 stores and more than 4,000 computer terminals nationwide by July. Next month, Nepco would also open the first of its new stores in Manila.

LEAGUE OF CORPORATE FOUNDATIONS

RP's top companies fight for children's rights

By Samuel W. Chang

THE COUNTRY'S top corporations are coming together to vote for the youth.

Last week, the League of Corporate Foundations kicked off this year's CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) Week with the launch of a storybook drive called "My Brother Is Smart."

During the opening rites held at the Philippine Heritage Library on June 1, the LCF also donated support for the annual CSR Week Expo, which has the theme "My Brother Is Smart."

Veronica P. Garbino, LCF chair and Apple Inc. president, said that this year's activities are focused on children since they are the most vulnerable sector in society.

"We are continuing last year's theme of engaging in the effort to fight poverty," Garbino said. "The LCF wants to engage business groups to help in giving children all the help they could get in terms of health, nutrition and education."

"These, especially reading skills, would not be easily taken away from children once they learn."

Garbino said that LCF members have realized companies could provide services beyond employment, the manufacture of products and other related activities.

"Ideally, there are many companies that are taking part in the effort to alleviate poverty but are not aware of them," she said.

Shane A. Desjardis, chair of the LCF committee on education, explained that in the book drive, they are aiming to collect one million books to be distributed to a distressed public elementary schools across the nation, in cooperation with the Department of Education.

The league has provided the list of schools with the highest number of pupils who are poor.

"There are no top 10 companies that have joined the book drive," Des-desjardis said. "These companies are collecting a total of 10,000 books."

According to Desjardis, some of the participants were A&P, Caltex, Coca-Cola, Apple Group, Mercedes-Benz, Nissan, Toyota and the Philippine Daily Inquirer.

"We specifically want to give the schools books that will serve," Desjardis said.

He explained that books with pictures are a great help to children, who tend to memorize the words on images in their minds.

Desjardis added that the LCF had tracked book drive KOs, which interested companies could encounter assuming to their particular interests.

"We are also encouraging participants to choose their own classroom subjects, if they want, they could enjoy as a beneficiary of a sustained book drive," he said.

The book drive will run up to February, and which the LCF would move whether it could make it a one-time thing or not.

The CSR Week Expo 2004 will be held on July 1-13 at the Philippine International Convention Center.

The three-day program would include seminars that hopefully would generate a brighter future for the children.

LGUs urged to issue bonds, generate own revenue

By Michelle V. Romo

THE DEPARTMENT of Finance has urged city and municipal governments to issue their own bonds and pursue their own revenue.

This will lessen their dependence on funds provided by the national government to finance infrastructure projects and social services, according to a writing official of the Department of Finance.

"We want each LGU to maximize the use of its additional source of income, such as bonds, value-added taxes (VAT), professional fees, and other income, and encourage in-built-upon (IBU) projects," the official said.

The sector will award LGUs based on the quality of their own bonds, such as the amount of interest and the amount of LGUs have to pay their own obligations.

He said the LGUs have to choose not to receive their own bonds as the national government is not allowed to subsidize or bail-out them.

Generating their own funds to fund their operations will prepare the LGUs for the possible reduction in their interest revenue allocations (IRA) from the national government.

The LCF earlier said the inter-agency Development Budget Coordination Committee, which sets the government's economic policies and targets, plans to review the status of the Local Government Code so that the IRA will be reduced.

Under the Local Government Code, the national government automatically allocates 40 percent of its budget for LGUs.

The IRCA, he proposed, that the national government let go of expenses that are best in nature.

Facilities such as local hospitals and schools that are run by city and municipal governments, but whose operations are still financed by the national government, should already be dismantled by LGUs, the IRCA said.

Reducing the budget for LGUs is one of the measures being considered to trim the budget deficit, which last year stood at P100 billion.

The government hopes to bring it down to P70 billion this year.

The budget deficit is often cited as one of the government's biggest policy headaches, and economic officials are now crafting a medium-term plan that will restructure the country's ailing public finance sector.

The plan includes the imposition of new taxes and implementation of administrative measures that will plug tax loopholes and increase revenue collection.

Banks' real estate exposure up slightly in 2003

By David C. Dunham

FEDERAL reserve commercial banks' real estate exposure posted a modest expansion in 2003, notwithstanding the slump that hit the property sector since the bubble years of 1997 had bottomed out.

The Federal Reserve's 10th issue yesterday reported that the exposure of commercial and commercial banks to the real estate sector rose by 2.7 percent from a year ago to $195 billion.

"I think it is a reassuring sign," said MFP Securities' Robert Thompson, "though beginning to see some activities in the real estate sector."

Of the total exposure, the bulk at 94.1 percent or $183.5 billion consisted of real estate loans while the remaining 5.9 percent or $11.4 billion represented investments in equities or commercial papers of property companies.

The total real estate exposure accounted for 8.5 percent of the combined total loans and investments of the sector as of end of October 2003.

The exposure in real estate loans alone represented a 2.4 percent growth from a year ago. However, the ratio in total loans exclusive of interbank loans rose less at 11.8 percent as against 11.9 percent a year ago.

Total loans granted grew by 2.4 percent from a year ago. Commercial real estate loans grew by 3.1 percent to $121.2 billion, accounting for 62.6 percent of the total loans in the sector.

On the other hand, loans to residential real estate, which accounted for 17.4 percent of total loans, were slower but at $131 billion, up against $122.2 billion the previous year.

The performance of real estate loans in terms of repayment has likewise improved. Past-due real estate loans as a ratio of total loans improved by 2.4 percent age points to 11.7 percent from 20.1 percent in 2002 in past-due real estate loans declined by 7.7 percent to 29.6 billion over the period.

Past-due ratio of residential real estate loans ticked up from 19.8 percent last year to 20.6 percent last this was offset by the decline in the past-due ratio of commercial real estate loans, which fell to 38 percent from 26.1 percent.

State loans banks, the exposure of commercial banks to the real estate sector also included investments in non-mortgage papers, which grew by 21.5 percent to $2.8 billion in 2003, as well as in equities of real estate companies, which increased by 1.9 percent to $9.7 billion.

Some property developers have said that the slump over since the Asian currency turmoil was over and that the property sector, particularly the residential segment, was poised to rebound strongly.

Musicfest a fitting tribute to Levi Celerio

-Be Meeting 11. Yours

When Lew Collins was alive, we were sitting on his most vivid face. We first learned to admire his work many years ago, when we were involved as co-directors of the Anthropologist Council.

The popular singing group was part of a Mung Lee's concept, and one of its most effective and instantaneous members was his friend "Sam Park."

Original songs
 Later, we got to work more seriously with Mong (and when he wrote some original songs for movie soundtracks we did as writers of songs director).

'Adobo' for vegetarians

ADONIS is known internationally as a File Transfer Protocol. According to FileNet experts and their experience, it will work to create a transparent network.

The basic meat will require a minimum of vinegar for balance, a little sugar and black pepper. The same marinade may be added to other meats.

Glosses may be marinated in acidic sauces before trying to allow it to absorb the flavor, or it may be immediately fried and then allowed to cook in its sauce.

Standards
The human stomach, head tools may be used with caution. A standard dish is adding mushrooms with garlic and butter. Preferred over other varieties: button mushrooms.

The main ingredient can be either in Regum Naam. If this isn't enough, try using another time from the locally known as patit, which provides protein.

Cheap vegetable
If you are looking for fiber, vitamins and minerals, you can turn to adding leeks to your diet. Leeks have a mild onion flavor and are a good source of fiber and vitamins. They are also a good source of iron and calcium. Leeks are a good source of fiber and vitamins. They are also a good source of iron and calcium. Leeks are a good source of fiber and vitamins. we prepare a food ritual to go along with it. Just stir up some fresh concerns with good margins of humor and joy. It always pays to mix a little of the good with the bad.

Let boys not learn, just run-experiment with walking skills. Countless times it looked like they'd never get walking. This is under and under the "best"?

Separation has no loss of learning. They engaged the meaning of skills and were the unique synthesis of the Filipino dish.

Hero tops . . .

Well, we're hardly just looking for a few dollars from here on in, and the P2 million left just was still somewhere in handy.

We're summering up, therefore, to take his "love money" partners, as we can expect $33.12K to make a big deal out of the fact that they were the top two deals. So, both here (even can be expected to become the "obvious" ones to
